SUBSCRIPTION TO THE EVERING EDITION (Including Postage), PER MONTH. 30c.; PER YEAR, $3.50.

Entered at the Post-Office at New York as see

Circulation Books Always Open.

"WORLD" GROWTH

STRIKINGLY SHOWN.

The Average Number of "WORLDS" Printed Daily and also the Average Numher of Advertisements Published Daily during the First Six Months of the Years 1884 and 1888 were as follows:

Average Daily Circulation.

LABOR AND THE CONSPIRACY LAWS.

The meeting of delegates of the Labor organizations of the State at Troy to-day is for the purpose of considering the best course the Labor men can take in the approaching election to promote the amendment of the Conspiracy laws. At present, it is contended, the decisions of the courts make all combinations of workingmen except to compel the increase or to prevent the decrease, of wages come under the penal provisions of the Conspiracy laws, while in no instance have such laws been held to make illegal any combination of capital to oppress or coerce labor.

At the extra session of the Legislature Gov. Hill recommended as one of the subjects for legislation the modification of the Conspiracy laws to remedy the wrongs complained of. But the Legislature by a strict party vote refused to take up the matter, the Republicans all voting against the Governor's

The Central Labor Union has already decided against any political action on the part of the organization for or against either party in the election, and in favor of supporting only such members of Assembly as are ready to plange themselves to advocate and vote for the desired change in the Conspiracy laws, This is the practical way of getting at the object sought; provided, of course, that a Governor who will not veto such a reform sits in the Executive Chamber.

HOW TO DO IT.

Corporation Counsel BEERMAN has come to the conclusion that the Legislature must in our jury system. He admits that it will be a troublesome and a long job to remodel the jury laws, and says that he "would be obliged to anybody for suggestions."

Well, we will offer one to Mr. BREEMAN. He knows very well that a good law can be made bad by its dishonest and corrupt administration, and that a bad law can be greatly improved by being honestly administered. Mr. BEERMAN is not foolish enough to contend that the jury laws, as they now exist, compel a Commissioner of Jurors to draw such penels as suit him, or to remit nearly $200,000 in fines in six months, mainly without cause.

Our "suggestion" is, therefore, for the Corporation Counsel to reply to the Mayor's the jury laws need revision; that the present laws, however, if honestly administered can be made effective in securing good juries, especially by enforcing times imposed on delinquent jurymons that new legislation will take time, while the abuses of the present office need immediate suppression, and that it is the duty of the Mayor in the interest of the people to remove CHARLES REILLY forthwith and to certify his removal to the Governor for approval.

It ought to make no difference that Mr. REHLY is a prominent Democratic leader. and we hope Mr. BEERMAN will be pleased with our suggestion.

ABUSE OF IMMIGHANTS. The outrageous treatment of immigrants by the railroad pool in Castle Garden has long been notorious, and has been suffered to continue until it has grown bold enough to defy the law. The pool seizes on immigrants arriving at this port, charges them a "combination" rate of fare; plunders them shamefully in extra baggage weight; subjects them 'to abuse and imposition by the sharks who handle their baggage; compels them to travel by whatever route the manager of the pool may dictate, often sendanother, and transports them in fifthy, inconvenient cars at a rate of speed as slow as a often attached.

Yesterday, however, the pool exceeded its previous outrages on the rights of immigrants. The steamship Heels arrived at an points West over the Ontario and New York, Sept. 16.

Western route, which is outside the pool. The employees of the pool boarded the boat, obtained the orders of the assengers on false representations, and then carried them to Castle Garden to be ex changed for tickets on some of the pool railroads. In this sharp practice they were backed by Immigration Commissioner STE-

Thousands of naturalized citizens here have friends and relatives among the immigrants, and are interested in their proper protection. Of what value are International Commerce Commissioners and Railroad Commissioners if the abuses and dishonest practices of the Castle Garden railroad pool are suffered to exist without interference?

A young Hungarian named Ogra BAROTHY killed himself in Chicago last Friday. It now appears that the suicide was an affair of honor and that the deceased really lost his life in a duel.

Among the absurd romances about Amer ca indulged in by the Europeans is the story that the popular method of fighting a duel here is for the adversaries to draw from a box containing two balls, one black and the other white. Whoever gets the black ball is compelled in honor to take his own life within a stated period, choosing his own method of death. Of course no such practice prevails or is it known in America. But it was the plan agreed on by BAROTHY and a fellowcountryman with whom he quarrelled three years ago. Banorny drew the black ball, and the agreement was that he should take his own life on the third anniversary of the day of the drawing. The loser came to the United States. Last Friday was the appointed day of death, and the young Hungarian kept his honor and took his life.

This is very romantic, but very silly. If BAROTHY had only reflected that suicide is a crime under our laws and that any agree nent to commit a crime is null and void, he might have had a fair excuse for living. Or if he had taken a wife and had a couple of children, as he might have had, since the "duel' was fought, he might have thought it better to put "honor" in his pocket and continue on this earth. As it is, his old adversary, if alive, will probably laugh at him, and think that if he had drawn the black ball he should not have made such a ninny of himself.

The little Judge with the large head and the big voice has a keen appreciation of wit, When he told NELLIE DAVIS, a laundress, who had been recruiting after a hard wash, that he had a grudge against laundresses because they tore the buttons off his shirt he had no wife to sew them NELLIE's quick retort, "Then why don't you get a wife, Judge?" saved her s month on the island. But as she went off. delighted, the burly court officer was deeply touched, for he noticed that as the Judge buried his head in a huge law volume his lip quivered and something very like a tear glistened on a page of the book.

OWNEY BRUEN is the successor of DANNY DRISCOLL as leader of the Whyos. He is in trouble for robbing and feloniously assaulting a grocer named HERMAN BRUNS and this time BRUEN is likely to be caged for ten years. This is gratifying. But in the name of Police and Justice why does the Whyo gang exist?

WORLDLINGS.

1864, Southern people had to pay $230 for the matethat would ordinarily cost $10 could not be bough

Mrs. Wilbur F, Storey, widow of the great Chicago editor, is said by a Saratoga correspondent to be worth $10,000,000, although one-tenth of that She is not yet past middle life, is a lady of distin

Willard Brown, an aged resident of Chicago, other day and told him how he used to carry the mail from Cincinnati to Piqua, O., on horseback in 1834. He received $4 a month for his services. There were only three employees of the Cincinnati

George F. Jones, the chief telegraph operator of the Postal Company in the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, is a great-grandson of John Hancook, of Declaration of Independence fame. He was born request for information by telling him that on Independence Day, 1853, and servedsin the war as a drummer how in the North Carolina Mountain

A REMARKABLE LETTER.

To the Editor of The Evening World;

I am getting well in years now, but I have never read or heard of a paper like THE explaining the object of his visit asked to be EVENING WORLD. The good that it is doing is wonderful. It secures justice to all-rich and poor, high and low, great and small, white success in such a quest, some were so important as to be absolutely emential to secure paper to the people and for the people. It has been doing good ever since its existence was started, and is still doing its good works. May it ever live, and may everybody in this broad land read it-let them be Democrats or Republicans-for it has done and is doing Republicans—for it has done and is doing what no other paper has done. Nothing is too great or small for its notice in doing good for mankind. It endeavors to rescue the perishing and help those who try to help themselves. Just now it is doing something that will prove a success in its interest for the wage-workers. It is climbing higher and higher in the minds and hearts of the people, higher in the minds and hearts of the people, ing parents by one line and their children by I refer particularly to the column headed "Seeking a Job." I am one among the thousands that have experienced this seeking heavy freight train, to which the cars are a job in my past days. I know that the experience of your seeker for employment and the good advice and many hints given as to how to approach an employer and secure

An "Evening World" Man's Quest for Employment.

He Manages to Secure Two Situations.

Some Deductions From His Seven

While getting his breakfast he looked over the want columns in THE WORLD and selected a batch which seemed to be more promising out with more confidence and enthusias

As it was to be his final trip he determined to do his best to get a place, and the outlook GROCERY CLERK-Pushing man, honest and good marker, wanted; references required. When the reporter reached the place named the store had just been opened, and

A moment after he went out with an expression of disappointment on his face, and it was the reporter's turn. "How long have you been in the grocery business?" was the first inquiry addressed to ents had heretofore been employed in a nother line of business, but said he thought he could fill the bill satisfactorily.

"But I want a man to take charge while I am away. What references have you?"

Here again the applicant was compelled to admit that he had none, but promised to admit that he had none, but promised to procure them.

"Well, I like your appearance, young man, and before I decide I would like to see you again. I won't make my final decision until I have seen more applicants. Supposing you get those references and come in again about noon."

"Hello! here's another one, I gvess," be exclaimed as a seedy individual stopped and looked in the door with an uncertain, inquiring air, and the reporter made his way out, encouraged at last by his first attempt.

His next visit was made in answer to this advertisement:

BOOKKEEPER WANTED for a few hours daily.

to say.

A hurried private explanation, however, with the proprietor followed, and the others, who were on their way downstairs, were summoned back, much to their astonishment, while the reporter, elated by his success, went on to try again.

It was getting on in the morning now, and all the places of business were open when the reporter took a car to answer the next on his list, which was:

WANTED A man to take charge of a coal office;

sponse to his application for the job.

"You must get around earlier it you want a place like this. Why, I had eight men around here before 7 o'clock this morning," he added, as the reporter turned to go. The fourth place visited was in answer to the following want:

acter."
This was enough for the reporter, and after son's clothes may be worn and threadbare, yet if his collar and ouffs are clean and white it gives him an air of neathess and respectability which at once makes a favorable in General neatness and tidmess in appear

They are good rules. Try them.

Within Bounds.

MONELL'S TENTHING COMPLE at 25 cents a

Mexican War Veteran Caught in a Bad

An instance of heroism worthy of a better cause, and showing how much pain pride will compel a man to endure, was lately told to an Evening .Would reporter.

The details are vouched for by people who knew the interested parties. "It happened in a little town in Pennsylvania some years ago," said the narrator, "and as the people connected with the story are dead, there can be no harm in relating the particulars, even if the participants should be remembered. "There was a farmer living on the outskirts of the village whose parsimony was skirts of the village whose parsimony was only equalled by his wealth. About three miles from his farm lived a veteran of the Mexican war, who was eking out a scanty living doing odd jobs for the farmers, who all liked him and helped him along whenever they could.

"His wants, however, exceeded the supply, and in consequence he took to stealing produce, not from those who had befriended him, but from the parsimonious farmer. The latter soon began to notice that his stock of corn stored in his barn was decreasing rapidly, and a small square hole in the wall within easy reach of the corn offered an easy solution to the cause of the disappear mee.

"The farmer procured a large bear trap, solution to the cause of the disappear mee.

"The farmer procured a large bear-trap, which he placed beside the hole, and retired to await the result. The next morning he arose early and went out to the barn, and the first sight that met his eye was the veteran standing with his arm thrust in the hole, his teeth chattering with the cold—for it was in the falt—and a look of acute anguish on his face. The bear-trap had caught his arm, and it was impossible, of course, to get his other hand through the hole to release himself; so there he had been for some hours, enduring the pain of the sprung trap and too proud to call for assistance.

"Pretending not to notice the man's predicament, the farmer said pleasantly:

"Nee frosty morning. John!"

"Yes, sir,' was the faint reply.

"You're up early, John, to be so far from home."

home.

"No answer.

"I was just going in to breakfast, John, suppose you come and eat with me?

"I can't sir, Pm'—

"Nonsense, man, you haven't had your breakfast yet. Come in the house,' and the old farmer began to walk away, turning around every few steps to bid the veteran 'come along.'

After torturing him thus for awhile, the veteran finally begged to be released, saying that he had borne the pain of the trap and the cold for three hours, and upon his promising to keep honest in future, the old farmer released him, promising at the same time to keep silence upon the matter as long as the veteran would keep honest. Both promises were faithfully kept, and it was only after the death of the veteran that the story leaked out."

Hetz Boyer, Mme. Marguerite, Cretaux, Mme. Linn Faulkner, Mile. Louise Wion, Mile. Cora Boulougne and others of lesser note but with a Parisian reputation.

In making the rounds local talent was not ignored, and justice and truth compel the statement that frequently there was very little to the advantage of the French hats except the magic name gided on the lining of the crown. This makes a difference, as a rule, of $20 or $25 in the price of the bonnet, and when husbands or fathers realize that they are paying this price for a Free Show that Attracts Big Audiences in Broadway.

A Broadway toy-dealer offers an exhibition which has not been seen in New York before and for which no fee is collected.

realize that they are paying this price for a short name printed on and for which no fee is collected.

The show is rigged up in his front window, and the crowds that stop to witness the performances attest the inferent that is taken in them.

The dealen has impore a several patented movable figures from France, and these are what amuse the audience such afternoon.

One of these figures from Erance, and these are what amuse the audience such afternoon.

One of these figures from seents a pig-pen.

A pig is standing still, and a man, who is dressed-like a haker, hasal grip on the pig stail. When the figure is wound up the pig stail. When the figure is wound up the pig stail. When the figure because people said it was a shame that they should both ride on a poor old animal that could barely carry himself.

A picture of a farmyard is shown. A young man is sensed on the back of a jackass, while the poor father leads the way. When this figure is wound up the jackass starts off on a tear and disappears in his stable. The figures, and sell for $30 apiece.

Batter Pay for Shaves Than Be Pested as Beats.

paying this price for a short its more feating it is the them howl with anguish.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the bonnet question, with which The Even.

But this is the commercial domestic side of the

It is a common practise among saloonkeepers to keep a slate. Sometimes they have no difficulty in collecting the amount due, and at other times it is a "hustle," as one of them put it.

There are barbers, too, who indulge in this pernicious practice, but as a general thing they can collect the amounts due. A Brooklyn barber didn't enjoy such good

He trusted a number of his customers

He trusted a number of his customers, principally the young men, until there was quite a good-sized amount due him.

He tried to collect the money, but couldn't. His débtors had all sorts of transparent excuses ready, and the venerable Teuton, getting engaged at this seeming lack of principle, resolved to indulge in a little blackmail.

When they called at his shop again be told them that he was going to post a builting them that he was going to post a bulletin board in his window giving their names and the amount due.

He said he would give them until Sept.

to settle.

That was Aug. 18. Since then small amounts of money have pouring in and the German barber is correspondingly happy.

Severnor's Island Is a Protty Playground, but the Seldiers De Hard Work.

Governor's Island, on the lovely days of sarly autumn, is a standing argument for its being turned into a public park. What a relief it would be to the people to escape there for a few hours from the noise and rush of the lower end of the town. The long stretches of green lawn, the bay glistening beyond the breezy walks, the glistening beyond the breezy walks, the young trees—all made a picture that one might envy. It is a study in green.

The soldier boys are away from the island now, at least the larger number of them. They are down at Fisher's Island practising rifle shooting. Forty of them remain behind to guard thirty who are prisoners in Castle Thunder. It seems as if going to the island was a picnic for the boys, but when an Evenino World reporter remarked something to this affect he was met by a shake of the head.

"Oh, no! It isn't fun for them to learn how to shoot. It is work and not play."

(From Life.)

to make the lords of creation admire them, surely.

Mile, Louise Wion contributes a very swell little turban which only costs $27. It is of black velvet, with a scurf of white Oriental embroidered cloth trimming it, and arranged in front like two wings. Stuck into the soft folds of this cloth are half a dozen barbaric gold pins, with flat, square heads. It is a very stylish turban.

One of the most elegant things that was shown in the embarras des richesses of the milliners shops was a bonnet in two shades of velvet—one very dark, almost black, and the other the bright, beautiful apple green, arranged in tiny plaits against the former. The bonnet had a slightly projecting brim,

SUCH DUCKS OF BONNETS. on which was a spray of jet passementerie. The strings were of narrow black velvet.

One of the most stunning things flourished before the eyes of the dazed Evening Wort.

THEY ARE ALL READY FOR NEXT WEEK'S An "Evening World" Art'at Permitted to Take a Glimpse in Advance—Some of the Shapes and Styles That Will Be Quite the Thing for the Coming Season—They Are Mere Triffes in Expense. If there is one thing more than another which thrills the soul of woman with a delight to which she completely succumbs it is a "duck of a bonnet." It is the crowning touch to a perfect toilet, and there breather not a feminine creature that is insensible to it. Women there may be who are cold and cannot love, but there is not one who is not conquered by the captivating charm of a dainty combination of silk, velvet, lace and

MILLINERY OPENINGS.

There is no need to tell the fair creature that this week will witness most of the fall

A BOULANOES. for them, one of its oung men. accompanied by an artist of the staff, invaded the most accomplished milliners' establishments and took notes of the fall styles. They were admitted into the inner sanctum and allowed to feast their eyes on the lovely confections of those Parisisn milliners whose names are enshrined in the hearts of American women as priestesses of the bonnet, Attached to the string of some ravishing bonnet or toque or hat was the card on which stood engraved in clear-cut script the names of Virot, Eugenie, Mme.

Hetz Boyer, Mme. Marguerite, Cretaux,

openings for bonnets

at the milliners, and department devoted to ine head-gear.

'creations" in femi-

In order to give the gentle readers of THE EVENING WORLD Some

idea of what is in store

feathers for her head.

in the eyes of the dazed Evenino Words in man was a toque devised by Mme. Cretaux. It was something that only a very daring and enormous swell of a woman could dare to wear. It was chic to the point of de-peration. The body was of folds of sage green broadcloth and there was a border of white grebe, which soft, fulfy material was studded at regular in-studded at regular in-most elegant. tervals with large lus-studded at regular intervals with large lustrous white pearls.

A two-inch band of the same grebe, bepearled also, and a yard and a half long, did duty as strings. In the front of the toque a little to the left the head of a black paroquet held an aigrette of white heron feathers, as delicate as the meshes of a spider's web. The price was not so delicate, for this lovely thing cost a cool $70.

A $75 hat (oh! hapless fathers, and still more hapless husbands!) was by Mme. Linn Paulkner, of Paris. The crown of the hat was round, and it swelled out slightly at the top. It was about three inches high, and the material was Havana brown velvet. In the front a large bow of gros-grain ribbon of the same shade hold a fea*per tinted in two shades, brown and sage green. A spray of leaves in bead passementeric actorned the brim, and the same substitute for strings did duty here as in the two described, a sort of bow of ostrich feathers in the same shades of brown and green. the large dry-goods houses which have a brown and green.

brown and green.

One more bonnet, sent by Mme. Hertz Boyer, deserves notice.

All the bonnets are small and run to the conical shape in their trimmings. This one is of silver gray velvet, covered with massive gold embroidery over the whole crown, with coque feathers in front.

The ribbons are gros grain silver gray. The price is only $40.

Though some of our wealthy New York ladies with a reputa-tion for taste in bontion for taste in bon-nets and bats lay in ONLY $40. these by the score, it may be an an example worthy of mention for the relief of burdened husbands that Jay Gould's daughter, Helen, though particular in her views on bonnets and with a most fastidious taste, contents her soul with three."

OLD PARTY POLITICS TABOOED.

Central Labor Union Delegates Must Keep Out of Them or Get Out.

The Central Labor Union said with no un certain voice yesterday that its delegates most either refrain from taking sides with the old political parties or else get out of the

The discussion came up on the report of the committee appointed to consider the case of Patrick J. Haybyrne, the delegate accused of pernicious activity in Republican

The committee submitted the following a the result of their deliberations: Your committee, which was instructed to report concerning the rights and dinties of delegates as re-gards carrit politics during the present campaign, respectfully recommend the adoption of the folrespectfully recommend the adoption of the lowing:

It is the sense of the Central Labor Union that no delegate ought to take any prominent part with any political party not indorsed by this Central Labor Union.

While every delegate has a right to take any political action he chooses, he must resign as a delegate if he acts prominently with either the Democratic or Republican party.

The minority of the committee wanted to have the words "ought to resign" substituted for "must resign," but the amendment was voted down by a vote of 66 to 17.

SINEWS FOR THE LABOR WAR. Successful Reception and Concert Adds to the Campaign Fund. About $300 was added to the campaign funds of the United Labor party by the reception and concert given to Presidential Candidates Robert H. Cowdrey and William H. T. Wakefield at the Windsor Theatre.

Secretary Bohn road to the Central Labor Union at yesterday's meeting a letter from Mayor Hewitt denying that the Dock Department laborers had not been paid on time.

The building trades, the brass-workers and the watch-case makers, was number 100 local in 49, have applied for reparate charters. The building trades locals will get their charter Oct. 1. Section 6 has appointed a committee to settle the row between the Ale and Porter Brewtrs' Protective Association, which is composed of Iranmen and Americans, and the Ale and Porter Brewers' Union No. 1, which is composed of Germana.

The Artificial Stone Masons' Union complain that builders and house owners in this city are mail-

The Arbitration Committee of the Central Labor Union is considering the complaint of the Progressive Painters that the painting on the Game-voort Market and the Metropolitan Museum of Art is being doze by non-union men.

The journeymen tailors of this city will hold a mass-meeting this evening at Kasefang's Hall, Twenty-mixth street and Seventh avenue, to consider the question of trade action for the restriction of immigration.

of immigration.

The Quinn faction of 49, which met at 93 Forsyth treet yesterday, suspended Excelsion Labor Cind, No. 1,563; Yorkville Club, No. 2,082; Equality Asociation (dry soods), No. 1,977, and Nos. 2,515, 888, 4,078, 6,636, 8,830, 10,813, 6,347, 6,701, 6,750, 6, 145, 7,267 and 8,368 for non-payment of dues.

The Tale of Hotel Registers At the Albemaric are J. C. Coombes, of Boston I. Mercer, of Montreal, and W. H. Heede I. S. N. Britton Davis, of Mexico; D. B. Harrison, of Pulladelphia, are as he Bartholdi. David Scull, of Philadelphia; S. B. Fowler, of Albany, and W. Hainsworth, of England, are at the Brunswick.

the Brunswick.

Austin Lathrop, of Corning, N. Y.; S. L. Bodine, of Pailadelphia, and B. F. Keith, of Boston, are real tered at the Gilsey House.

R. H. Harmon, of Rochester; T. H. Gade, of Paris; Dr. Engleman, of St. Louis, and Major F. Bridgman, U. S. A., are at the Grand Hotel. At the St. James are Benjamin Wilkins, of Chick. Watkins, of Ricamond; T. V. Fowler, of Bufralo, and Alamont de Cordova, of New Jersey.

Sick Headache

May arise from stomach troubles, biliousness, or dys is something wrong somewhere, and whatever the cause, Hood's harapparils is a reliable remedy for mediachs, and for all troubles which mean to require a correction and isgulator. It sures dyspepsis, bilioneness, maisris, sick headache, accommanted by vomiting spells. My sys-tem was all out of order, and in addition to this I contem was all out of order, who in addition to this I con-tracted a severe cold, which caused a terrible cough. I took Hoed's Barsaparilla, and it has accomplished so much shat I am certain of a speedy restoration of perfect health. The headache has left me entirely, and my sys-tem has come to a regular working order." MES. A. J. KIMMERMANK, 600 Lish st., Milwankee, Wis.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Sold by all druggists. $1; sta for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & OO., Apotheraries, Lowell, Mass.

100 DOSES ONE DOLLAR

Bloomingdales'.

THIRD AVE. AND SOTH ST.

In our Crockery Department we are making a Great Display of New Goods in Dinner, Tea and Toilet Sets of our own importation. As Special Bargains we offer

125-plece Dinner Sets of plain $6.98 white ware at 118-piece Decerated Dinner Sets. $11.98 44-piece Decorated Tea Set 10-piece Decorated Chamber Set. $2,69 6 Cups and 6 Saucers of best Trans- 59c.

G Cups and G Saucers of beat Transparent China.

Finest Carlabad China Cups and Saucers, gold based decoration, $1.44

Extra fac China Gold Band Cups $1.96

Handsome Lemonade Seta, consisting of Tray, Pitcher and G Ginsses.

Fine Liquor Set, Decanter, 6

Glasses and Stand.

Berry Sets, Large Dish and 12 Sau- 980, Our stock of Parlor, Vase and Hanging Lamps is without doubt the largest in the city and our prices are known to be always

With every sale of 25 CENTS AND UPWARD made in our CROCKERY DEPARTMENT this week. we will give a can of the best and purest BAKING POW-DER, manufactured especially BLOOMINGDALE BROS.

Third Ave. and 59th St.

THINGS POLITICAL

An EVENING WORLD reporter overheard to-day the following stray bits of conversation as he walked through the City Hall and County Court

"I wonder if the old Growler is at the Mayor's office to-day." "Tammany Hall ought to nominate Judge P. Henry Dugro for Mayor.

oats out of hock." ut of the papers." 'Yes, but a public office is not a private affair.'

.. It is about time for the boys to get their over "The County Democracy leaders are suspice of each other." "What has become of ex-Alderman William P. Kirk ?"

'And ex-Alderman Charles Reilly ?"

" Walting,"

" I'll bet they will vote the straight ticket." "Deputy Commissioner of Public Works D. Low oer Smith is becoming quite a politician." "If that is so look out for another investige

"Oh, D. Lowber Smith is all right. He is ho "I hope he will have backbone this election. If ne has he can stop Republican repeaters and the "Let's go over to Jim Mooney's and have t * - I'll go you. "

"I would like to see Richard A. Cunningham in "Ex-Congressman John J. Adams will vote

.. He is a kicker. " "Yes, and he is betting money that Harrison will noll 100,000 votes in New York City." "The new Aqueduct Commissioners have not

"There are over three hundred men on our payrolls who vote in New Jersey, Kings and Richmo "That's nothing. Over two-thirds of the men employed on the new Aqueduct and on the old

Coneduct live in Westchester County and Putnam

"If they stay in long enough they will be fired County." "Who are you looking for?"

" Eddie Cahill and a job." "Mayor Hewitt was angry on a train the other lay. The train stopped, and the Mayor asked: What station is this?' The brakeman replied: Flag station.' The Mayor thought the brakeman was giving him a sisp, and he ejaculated : 'You are very insolept, sir !"

FUN FOR AFTER DINNER

Fair Piancee (departing with her loved one)-What borrid taste of her to bring a suit against Hustess—And how very awkw

May Cause a Relapse.

Landlord (mountain resort house)-Well, siz, I rust that inhalling our mountain air will one you to return to the city with renewed streng and vigor. Guest—Can't tell yet: It all depends on the bill.

He Nover Bragged.

[Prom Puck.]
Drop a tear for poor old Crowley of Central Park

At least one distinguished foreigner has menage to live among us without telling "low much tetraw they do heverythink on the other side, Fo

Antuma Flores Many a man will not call in or shoot ats summet hat on Sept. 15 this year. He will try to hang out two months longer in the hope of getting a new one at some one's class expense, on the strength of the election wager.

Chief Justice Fuller has the reputation of being guished presence, and dresses in excellent taste.

Post-Office in those days.

Did Ever Nowspaper Before Receive Such Tribute ?- Sceptics May See the Original.

Days' Experience.

On the seventh day of THE EVENING WORLD reporter's quest for a situation he resolved to be on hand among the first and rose at day.

than any of his previous lists, and he started was certainly not discouraging.

The first want on his list was the following:

there was but one other applicant on hand, and he was talking to the proprietor.

He was obliged to acknowledge that his tal-

There was no one around when the reporter arrived, and the store was locked. He waited half an hour before it was opened, and by that time nine fellow applicauts had made their appearance, and his chances began to seem less rosy.

Shortly after the door was opened a gentleman, who said he was the person who had advertised for the bookkeeper, made his appearance and the ten were ushered upstairs into a medium-sized office.

Each one was told to write at dictation a paragraph for the morning paper as a specimen of his handwriting and was sked a few questions. It did not take over twenty minutes to examine six of the applicants, when the proprietor said:

"I have made my choice and it is no use for the rest of you to remain. I have selected this young man for the place," he said, indicating The Evening World reporter, who was too much surprised at first to know what to say.

A hurried private explanation, however.

'You're too late young man," was the re-

The fourth place visited was in answer to the following want:

BOOKERFEE for a comfortable position in reliable jobbing house; salary moderate.

It was with little hope of getting so desirable a position that the reporter entered the store on the west side and asked for the head of the establishment.

He found him in his private office and was told to sit outside while he was engaged in examining some other applicants for the place. Four others kept him company.

"I don't think there's much chance for any of us, said one in a desponding tone, "for I have been at least twenty-five others in here since that time. Some of them went away but I am going to stick it out."

When it came the reporter's turn he went in and was engaged in conversation by a pleasant spoken gentleman. He was asked about his knowledge of bookkeeping, business in general and asked to give some specimen of his hand writing, some references.

"I have had one or two very desirable applicants this morning," he said, "but I prefer you to any of them, and I think I will give you the place if you will furnish me with satisfactory references as to your character."

This was snough for the reporter, and after

As the result of his seven days' experiences in search of a situation, the reporter found that, although many things contributed to wicked?

'Yes, paps, but this lan't a regular show; it's only 10 cents; children, five cents.

'Um_well-or—a 10-cent circus can't be so very wicked. Let's gc."

Algy-Ya-as, wealty, I can't stand this wild life!

point. The trimming on the The trimming on the Boulanger hat is generally ostrich feathers, as it will be seen that it follows pretty closely in the wake of the Directoire, having the same broad, low shape and framing the face in a pretty background.

H. T. Wakefield at the Windsor Theatre,
Mr. Cowdrey was enthusiastically received, and Dr. McGlynn, Mr. Fitzgerald, of Connecticut; Henry Pyne and James Redpath were also warmly received.

The Carl Sahm Club played sacred muric and firsh Lilly Runals, Mr. Thomas Ballentine, Nella Miller and Mrs. Ladowisk-Murray volunteered their services as vocalists. and framing the face in a pretty background.

The prettiest example son of this hat was the creation of Mme. Virot.

It was a silver gray felt, the under side of the brim being lined with the finest black velvet to within an inch of the edge. The body of the hat was completely covered with curled ostrich feathers of silver gray, three feathers standing up in front and bound together by a big bow of black velvet. The brim of the hat was caught up into a queer little twist behind and another bow of velvet was fastened there.

For strings, or rather in place of strings, a sort of bow of ostrich feathers in the same tint of silver gray is caught at the neck by another bow of black velvet and the feathers then hang in front for about two feet.

Like most of these charming, simple things, the price is an indication of what merit there is in this chie naivete. This Boulanger hat of Virot's is only $75!

Hats and bonnets of this description are of Virot's is only $75!

Hats and bonnets of this description are usually the complement to a partisular toilet and do not harmonize with every suit. The fashionable grande dame who shows the reverence for dress which it demands must have her bonnet for riding, her bonnet for calls, her bonnet for luncheons, her bonnet for luncheons.

for the theatre, her bonnet for walking, and her bonnet for everything else that the woman of the world does in her busily idle day.

Then the bonnets must be en suite with each particular costume. One fashionable lady, who has a husband with broad views affected by the swell A SWELL TURBAN.

girls last year, and which, on a tailor-dressed damsel had such a clean-cut, stunning effect, has quite gone out. They will not be worn to any extent this season. The walking hat will be in great favor, however, and the pretty Alpine hat, though not regarded as very stylish, is neat and effective, especially the snowy white ones. Bright red, terracotta and pure white are the colors which obtain most in this sort of hat. For the comfort of oppressed males who foot bills for wives or daughters, let it be said that this hat, ready to be put on and worh by the female purchaser, is only $1 or $2! This is enough to make the lords of creation admire them, band with broad views and a broad income. ordered a reinforcement of her bonnet department—thirty-three brand-new ones, and had a dozen old ones "fixed over." She was supposed to have enough to carry her through the winter with this equipment. The derby, which used to be so much affected by the swell A SWELL TURBAN. girls last year, and which, on a tailor-dressed.